ABOUT

LITTLE MARGO CATAPULTS

Little Margo Catapult is a small and medium-sized enterprise (SME) born out of a passion for preserving traditional Indonesian games, particularly the slingshot. Established in 2020 in Pondok Cina, Depok, this business transforms slingshots into educational, aesthetic, and functional products, incorporating local craftsmanship and sustainable innovation.

Emphasising educational and eco-friendly values, Little Margo utilises wood, textile, and plastic waste as primary materials. Our slingshot products have reached beginners, collectors, and professionals across various countries in Asia and Europe. With customisable designs, the slingshot serves as a medium for expression and nostalgia across generations.

More than just a toy, the slingshot is now elevated as a symbol of creativity, culture, and independence. Little Margo Catapult continues to grow, inspiring local entrepreneurs rooted in traditional values.

CHOSEN MATERIALS

Made by Satria Conayio

Materials that Matters

Repurposed Water Gallon Cap

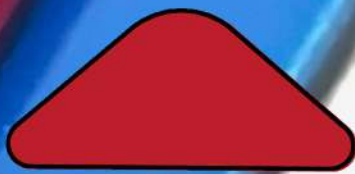

Sustainably Crafted. Unexpectedly Powerful.

Used gallon caps are processed into hard plastic material that can be reshaped.

This process not only reduces single-use plastic waste, but also creates products with attractive colors and durability suitable for light slingshots.

Materials that Matters

Micarta

Sustainably Crafted. Unexpectedly Powerful.

Micarta is a composite material made from layers of fabric (such as linen, canvas, or paper) compressed with resin until hardened.

The result is a lightweight, extremely strong, water-resistant material with a unique aesthetic texture. Micarta is often used in the outdoor equipment industry due to its high durability.

Materials that Matters

Carbon Fiber

The Future of Precision, Wrapped in Carbon.

Known as one of the lightest and strongest materials in the world, carbon fiber provides maximum durability with minimal weight. These characteristics make it ideal for professional-grade slingshots that require precision and high performance.

The sleek woven texture not only enhances its visual appeal, but also reinforces structural integrity, making every shot feel sharper, faster, and more controlled. Whether in competition or practice, this series is designed for those who refuse to compromise between speed and strength.

Materials that Matters

Recycled Skateboard Deck

Reclaimed for Style. Reinvented for Performance.

Used skateboards made of laminated maple wood are recycled into solid, colorful materials. In addition to being strong and elastic, the use of skateboard waste is also a form of recycling that is both aesthetically pleasing and environmentally friendly.

Materials that Matters

G10 Fiber

High-performance material, zero compromise.

Renowned for its exceptional strength, durability, and resistance to wear, G10 fiber is a high-pressure fiberglass laminate built to perform under tough conditions. G10 offers a perfect balance of grip, toughness, and stability, making it ideal for slingshots that demand control and resilience.

Its slightly textured surface enhances handling, even in wet or sweaty conditions, while maintaining a clean, modern look. Built for daily use or intense training, this series offers reliability without compromising comfort. Crafted for shooters who value control as much as power.

Custom on your favourite size, colours, materials & future

Crafted with passion and precision, this handmade traditional slingshot is a tribute to timeless outdoor gear.

Each piece is made using carefully selected, high-quality natural materials ensuring durability, strength, and authenticity in every curve.

The grip is shaped for comfort and control, perfect for those who value both form and function during their adventures and competitions.
